

Jaime Sandoval Biography

Jaime Sandoval is the Executive Director of Student Advocacy and Youth Outreach for the Dallas Independent School District where he oversees the Homeless Education Program, the Alcohol and Drug Intervention Program, Child Abuse and Domestic Violence Office, LGBTQ efforts and the Psychological and Social Services Department. Jaime received his Master's Degree in Secondary Education from Stephen F Austin and his undergraduate degree in Education from the University of Texas at El Paso.

He arrived to Dallas ISD in 1999 as the Director of the Bilingual Education program and has held many leadership roles during his tenure including Director of Summer Learning, Director of Administration Services, and elementary school principal where he was honored twice by the Southeast Chamber of Commerce as Principal of the Year in 2008 and 2012 for his efforts in turning around John Quincy Adams Elementary School from a low performing campus to one that was rated as Recognized for four consecutive years by the Texas Education Agency. Additionally, under his leadership in the Summer Learning Program, Dallas ISD was ranked among the highest in a national evaluation that measured the effectiveness of low-income students' participation in summer learning programs specifically measuring math and reading.

Outside of working in a school district, Jaime has worked as adjunct professor for Ana G Mendez University and worked as a trainer of trainer for the Ana G Mendez Corporate Office by developing college level curriculum materials related to data analysis.
